Jessica Guh, MD, Holly Park Clinic Provider

Posted on November 20, 2015 by Charles Lee

Jessica Guh received her undergraduate degree in documentary film at Stanford University. After that she did community organizing work for two years before deciding to return to medical school at the University of Michigan. After graduating from Swedish Family Medicine at Cherry Hill she took a job at ICHS. Caring for vulnerable populations has always been a priority and the culture at ICHS was a perfect fit! She spends part of her time at the primary care clinic at Asian Counseling and Referral Services and loves taking care of patients with severe mental illness in a model that provides such great wrap around care. Other clinical interests include comprehensive women's health, addiction medicine, and writing and teaching about race and medicine. She helps teach and facilitate the racial inequity curriculum and workshops at Swedish Family Medicine at Cherry Hill.

A year-long bike commuter, Jessica can frequently be seen lugging her bike gear around and sporting helmet hair. She spends her free time reading graphic novels and romping around Capitol Hill.
