About Dr. Guiahi

Dr. Maryam Guiahi completed her undergraduate training at Cornell University and trained in obstetrics and gynecology at Loyola University in Chicago. She was sub-specialty trained in contraception and family planning at Columbia University where she also received a Master's of Science in Epidemiology in order to have a broader public health perspective on women's healthcare.

Dr. Guiahi has a special interest in providing contraception for women with complex medical conditions. She enjoys being able to help patients with their health and reproductive goals throughout the spectrum of OB/GYN care – from family planning to general health and pregnancy.

Outside of University of Colorado Family Planning, she enjoys dancing and running.

Education

- Medical School: Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine (2005)
- Graduate School: Columbia University (2011)
- Residency: Loyola University Program (2009)
- Fellowship: New York Presbyterian Hospital (Columbia and Cornell Campus) Program (2011)

Did you know?

Dr. Guiahi is a personable physician who takes patients' concerns seriously. Her approach to treatment is conservative, often recommending less-invasive therapies and treatment first before exploring more complex procedures. However, she discusses all of the options that are available, and believes the best therapy is the one her patient is most comfortable with.
