UNITED STATES MEDICAL LICENSING EXAMINATION™

STEP 3 SCORE REPORT

This score report is provided for the use of the examinee.

Third-party users of USMLE information are advised to rely solely on official USMLE transcripts.

Sober, Stephanie Paula

Test Date: March 27, 2008

USMLE ID: [REDACTED]

The USMLE is a single examination program for all applicants for medical licensure in the United States; it replaced the Federation Licensing Examination (FLEX) and the certifying examinations of the National Board of Medical Examiners (NBME Parts I, II and III). The program consists of three Steps designed to assess an examinee's understanding of and ability to apply concepts and principles that are important in health and disease and that constitute the basis of safe and effective patient care. Step 3 is designed to assess whether an examinee possesses the medical knowledge and understanding of clinical science considered essential for the unsupervised practice of medicine, with an emphasis on patient management in ambulatory-care settings. Results of the examination are reported to medical licensing authorities in the United States and its territories for use in granting an initial license to practice medicine. The two numeric scores shown below are equivalent; each state or territory may use either score in making licensing decisions. These scores represent your results for the administration of Step 3 on the test date shown above.

PASS

This result is based on the minimum passing score recommended by USMLE for Step 3. Individual licensing authorities may accept the USMLE-recommended pass/fail result or may establish a different passing score for their own jurisdictions.

232

This score is determined by your overall performance on Step 3. For recent administrations, the mean and standard deviation for first-time examinees from U.S. and Canadian medical schools are approximately 214 and 17, respectively, with most scores falling between 140 and 260. A score of 184 is recommended by USMLE to pass Step 3. The standard error of measurement (SEM)† for this scale is approximately six points.

96

This score is also determined by your overall performance on the examination. A score of 75 on this scale, which is equivalent to a score of 184 on the scale described above, is recommended by USMLE to pass Step 3. The SEM† for this scale is approximately three points.

†Your score is influenced both by your general understanding of clinical medicine and by the specific set of items selected for this Step 3 examination. The Standard Error of Measurement (SEM) provides an index of the variation in scores that would be expected to occur if an examinee were tested repeatedly using different sets of items covering similar content.

Test Date: February 13, 2006

USMLE ID: [REDACTED]

The USMLE is a single examination program consisting of three Steps designed to assess an examinee's understanding of and ability to apply concepts and principles that are important in health and disease and that constitute the basis of safe and effective patient care. Step 1 is designed to assess whether an examinee understands and can apply important concepts of the sciences basic to the practice of medicine, with special emphasis on principles and mechanisms underlying health, disease, and modes of therapy. The inclusion of Step 1 in the USMLE sequence is intended to ensure mastery of not only the sciences underlying the safe and competent practice of medicine in the present, but also the scientific principles required for maintenance of competence through lifelong learning. Results of the examination are reported to medical licensing authorities in the United States and its territories for use in granting an initial license to practice medicine. The two numeric scores shown below are equivalent; each state or territory may use either score in making licensing decisions. These scores represent your results for the administration of Step 1 on the test date shown above.

This result is based on the minimum passing score set by USMLE for Step 1. Individual licensing authorities may accept the USMLE's recommended pass/fail result or may establish a different passing score for their own jurisdictions.

This score is determined by your overall performance on Step 1. For recent administrations, the mean and standard deviation for first-time examinees from U.S. and Canadian medical schools are approximately 216 and 24, respectively, with most scores falling between 140 and 260. A score of 182 is set by USMLE to pass Step 1. The standard error of measurement (SEM) for this scale is six points.

This score is also determined by your overall performance on the examination. A score of 75 on this scale, which is equivalent to a score of 182 on the scale described above, is set by USMLE to pass Step 1. The SEM for this scale is two points.

Your scores influenced both by your general understanding of the basic biomedical sciences and the specific set of items selected for this Step 1 examination. The Standard Error of Measurement (SEM) provides an index of the variation in scores that would be expected to occur if an examinee were tested repeatedly using different sets of items covering similar content.

STEP 2 CLINICAL KNOWLEDGE (CK) SCORE REPORTSober, Stephanie Paula
[REDACTED]Test Date: January 17, 2007

The USMLE is a single examination program consisting of three Steps designed to assess an examinee's understanding of and ability to apply concepts and principles that are important in health and disease and that constitute the basis of safe and effective patient care. Step 2 is designed to assess whether an examinee can apply medical knowledge, skills, and understanding of clinical science essential for the provision of patient care under supervision, including emphasis on health promotion and disease prevention. The inclusion of Step 2 in the USMLE sequence is intended to ensure that due attention is devoted to principles of clinical sciences and basic patient-centered skills that provide the foundation for the safe and competent practice of medicine. There are two components to Step 2: a Clinical Knowledge (CK) examination and a Clinical Skills (CS) examination. This report represents results for the Step 2 CK examination only. Results of the examination are reported to medical licensing authorities in the United States and its territories for use in granting an initial license to practice medicine. The two numeric scores shown below are equivalent; each state or territory may use either score in making licensing decisions. These scores represent your results for the administration of Step 2 CK on the test date shown above.

This result is based on the minimum passing score set by USMLE for Step 2 CK. Individual licensing authorities may accept the USMLE recommended pass/fail result or may establish a different passing score for their own jurisdictions.

This score is determined by your overall performance on Step 2 CK. For recent administrations, the mean and standard deviation for first-time examinees from U.S. and Canadian medical schools are approximately 221 and 24, respectively, with most scores falling between 140 and 269. A score of 182 is set by USMLE to pass Step 2 CK. The standard error of measurement (SEM)* for this scale is seven points.

This score is also determined by your overall performance on the examination. A score of 75 on this scale, which is equivalent to a score of 182 on the scale described above, is set by USMLE to pass Step 2 CK. The SEM* for this scale is three points.
