Dalia Brahmi, MD, MPH

ADJUNCT ASSISTANT PROFESSOR
DEPARTMENT OF MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH

E : daliabrahmi@gmail.com / brahmi@email.unc.edu

Dr. Brahmi is a family physician and global reproductive health specialist. At the World Health Organization, she reviewed scientific evidence on abortion and contraception that contributed to the CDC's Medical Eligibility Criteria for Contraceptive Use and the WHO's Safe Abortion Guidance. Dr. Brahmi has experience incorporating comprehensive reproductive health services into primary health clinics, and has trained clinicians in Latin America, Africa, Eastern Europe, the Middle East and Asia. As the associate medical director of Ipas, Dr. Brahmi worked to reduce maternal mortality from unsafe abortion. She travels internationally with NGOs providing technical assistance in reproductive health and trains residents and students locally at Planned Parenthood South Atlantic.
