Specialties

- Family Physician

Doctors of family medicine are primary care physicians who provide basic health care to families and individuals of all ages. Family medicine involves the care, treatment, and management of all organs and organ systems, as well as all diseases. Typically, family physicians form lasting relationships with patients, paying special attention to their lives outside of their physical health, specifically their family and community relationships. In some places, family medicine is referred to as general practice (GP). Family medicine doctors in the US... read more

- Resident

A resident physician is a doctor who has completed medical school and is training to specialize in a specific area of medicine, such as surgery, pediatrics, or oncology. This three to seven year period of postgraduate training is supervised by attending physicians. After completing a residency, doctors take examinations to qualify for specialist board certification. Residents are licensed medical doctors with the appropriate degree and license to practice, but they report to a board certified "attending" doctor. While they cannot admit patients, they can play a key role in providing care.
