SACRAMENTO, CA, December 5, 2013 (LifeSiteNews.com) – Police in Sacramento have arrested a medical assistant at a Planned Parenthood facility for allegedly sexually touching a patient.

Jorge Martin-Santana, 28, has been charged with sexual battery, a misdemeanor.

The Sacramento Police Department issued a warrant for his arrest Tuesday and say he turned himself in the next day.

Police in California's capital city investigated the complaint, which was made in October, with Sacramento County District Attorney's Office.

It was not immediately clear which of Planned Parenthood's three Sacramento clinics Martin-Santana worked at. Two of the three are abortion facilities.

Investigators believe, but are not certain, that Martin-Santana victimized only one patient.

Although not widely reported, mothers have faced sexual misconduct or abuse at abortion facilities worldwide.
