Bedlam Breaks Out in Bakersfield Abortion Clinic as Ambulance Arrives for Patient

February 25, 2016 By Operation Rescue 2 Comments

Abortion supporters attack pro-lifers as abortion patient is loaded into an ambulance

By Cheryl Sullenger

Bakersfield, CA – Bedlam broke out at the FPA Women’s Health abortion facility in Bakersfield as an ambulance arrived to transport a patient suffering a medical emergency. During the incident two abortion supporters assaulted pro-life activists trying to document the incident, which took place on February 23, 2016.

As the ambulance arrived, several clinic workers wearing red scrubs surrounded the ambulance with white sheets to impede those who were trying to photograph the incident.

As a woman was being prepared for emergency transport, a man and woman began to push and shove Tim and Terri Palmquist, a husband-wife sidewalk counseling team. The man followed Terri in a harassing manner and attempted to block her on the public sidewalk while the woman knocked over a ladder that moments earlier Terri had used to take photos over the sheets held by the clinic workers.

This man in the black shirt attacked and harassed pro-life advocate Terri Palmquist (in white shirt) while another woman knocked over the ladder used by pro-lifers and damaged their cameras. Meanwhile, an abortion clinic patient suffering a medical emergency is loaded into an ambulance. The man was later arrested for vandalism after destroying memorial crosses pictured here.

Later, the man kicked over memorial crosses that were stuck into the public easement around the abortion facility then threw a cup of soda at Tim Palmquist. Once police finally arrived, the man was arrested for vandalism.

"We so appreciate Tim and Terri Palmquist for their sacrifices on the streets that have not only saved hundreds of lives, but have also documented the threats to women's lives and health posed by this shoddy abortion business," said Operation Rescue President Troy Newman.

Thanks to the Palmquists, Operation Rescue has documented ten medical emergencies at this FPA abortion facility just since August, 2012. This means that the Bakersfield FPA Women's Health abortion facility hospitalizes an abortion patient on average about once every four months.

The abortionist on duty during the most recent incident was Alexander Simopoulos, a Beverly Hills based cosmetic surgeon who specializes in female genital cosmetic surgery, vaginal reconstruction, and other plastic/cosmetic surgeries for celebrities and others.

Beverly Hills cosmetic surgeon Alexander Simopoulos was the abortionist at the Bakersfield FPA Women's Health on February 23, 2016, when an ambulance transported one of his patients to a hospital ER.

Just to illustrate this abortionist's true view of women, Simopoulos has appeared in a television episode of Bravo's Millionaire Matchmaker, where he confessed that most of his relationships with women are based on sex.

However, an article researched and penned by Tim Palmquist explains that women Simopoulos met on the show considered him "Dr. Freak," "creepy," "gross," and "Dr. Frankenstein." One woman was so appalled by his behavior that she warned, "women of the world, stay away!"

Most of the clips from the Simopoulos episodes have since been removed from the Bravo
