

Family and Community Medicine

MSC 09 5040

1 University of New Mexico

Albuquerque, NM 87131

Phone: Administration (505) 272-2165 Phone: Clinic (for patients) (505) 272-1734

Fax: (505) 272-8045

UNM > Home > Administration > Our Team > Profiles > Nicole Yonke, MD, MPH

Nicole Yonke, MD, MPH

Assistant Professor

MSC09 5040

Albuquerque, NM 87131

Maternal Child Health

505-272-2165

505-272-8045

nyonke@salud.unm.edu

Dr. Yonke is an assistant professor of family & community medicine at the University of New Mexico School of Medicine. She received her MD from Oregon Health and Sciences University (OHSU) in 2007. She completed a residency in family medicine in 2010 and preventive medicine in 2011 at OHSU. She then completed a fellowship in maternal child health in 2013 at UNM.

Dr. Yonke has focused her research on the effects of substance use in pregnancy and newborns, breastfeeding, and family planning. She also is interested in any research related to maternal child health.

Dr. Yonke's specialties and certifications include:

- American Board of Family Medicine (2010)
- American Board of Preventive Medicine (2011)
- Maternal Child Health