But waking up from the surgery is hard also. but I loved how caring they are and also meeting some very sweet nice people who were going through the same thing as me . I wasn't alone . It meant the world to me . But just prepared to wait a while if you do come here bring a book or listen to there exotic music lol but . I wish you all a happy , safe journey

This is not the type of place, where you have many choices. Ot could be the only place, where your insurance sends you . It could have been a recommendation. For the most part, women are here , 4 one reason. And, there should be no judgement. The front desk staff is lovely. The Phlebotomist dept is also genuine. Most of the nurses in the back also appear to be caring. Some of the other staff, may call you sweetie and honey, but it's so fake. I don't want to get into specifics, but if you have a choice, do not-come here. Once you do, they have a medical profile on you, and you wouldn't want to read it.

The wait time is un excusable. If you only have one sonogram technician, hire a PT person to help with the patient numbers. If your patients, are having a hard time dealing with, their wait time, you should be understanding. You shouldn't say, they are being inpatient. Most of your patients are waiting atleast 7 hours. Its a very tense situation for most women . It may be physical uncomfortable as well. Your chairs do nothing, but cause back pain. There is almost zero reading material . If you have a choice, go somewhere else. I only thank The front desk staff, and the phlebotomist. feel gross judgment from everyone else . You are not their sweetie or anything else

Never in my life have I been so uninformed about medical procedures. I waited in the office for 7 hours before anyone told me I'd be going under anesthesia that day.

They blew out 7 of my veins trying to start an IV-Did not explain the procedure to me at all-I came out completely covered in medical tape that was put there for absolutely no reason-The anesthesiologist hit me in the eye with the wrapper for the IV needle before surgery and said nothing.

The post-op nurses are the best of the best.

Probably better than most places. Even still, fuck this shit.

Not sure why there aren't more 5 star reviews... The office is clean. They took my appointment same day. They follow up quickly. The absolute best thing about this office however is the staff. They are kind, compassionate, efficient and through. I am a healthcare professional so I have a deep respect for what they do here daily. I am not usually on the patient side but when I need to be this is the kind of office I want to find myself in. Thank you to everyone who has been so awesome at Park Med!

Everyone is nice but, you've to fast before the procedure . But there's no point because it takes 8 hours for them to see you anyways. Don't come here it's just not worth the wait. You can get nice service and way faster service anywhere else. Don't overbook and maybe you can expedite the process. They're obviously about the money.

Worst part their seats are super uncomfortable and you've to sit there forever. The biggest waste of my time. I don't even know why I'm giving 2 stars.

6 hours to be seen and get treated horribly. They are not discreet at all and discuss everything in front of the whole waiting area. The worst!

Worst doctor office in my 10+ years living in NYC. I am still pissed as I am back home, so I decide to write a review.

I went in and filled out the form, left SSN blank. As a background, I am a lawyer, I was educated that for your own benefit, just don't give out SSN easily, nobody has right to obtain your SSN, unless government, such as IRS. So I had been to numerous doctors, never gave out my SSN, even at emergency room, no problem at all.

But today, here, at this office, the front desk told me "no, we need your SSN to go through insurance", which is not true at all. I explained. The front desk then talked on a loudspeaker to ask for a supervisor/billing/security or sth, treated me like I am a person did not pay them. Seriously?! I don't want to be at that office for even one more second. I left without seeing the doctor. How good or bad the doctor is does not matter at this point.

I was iffy about this place because of the reviews, but staff was nice ... they were ok no attitude. The nurses after the procedure were a lot nicer and made you feel comfortable. I just really hated that my appointment was for 8:40 AM and my procedure didn't start until a little after 12 Pm. Completely unacceptable. Soooo yeah expect to be here alllllll day.

Not only are they slow, they have no organization or consideration for someone's time. They are very nonchalant and can careless about you. I did a termination procedure May 15th and went in for my follow up May 29th (two weeks later) to find out i have to do the procedure again on June 4th because they left pieces behind. Smfh. How the hell do you make that mistake???! These guys suck!!! Very unprofessional and incompetent individuals in Parkmed!!! I would give them NO STARS if i could...

This was the worst experience. I waited over 2 hours to even start my procedure. It took 3 1/2 hours before I left. It took so long it forced the person escorting me to leave. I would never go here again.

I was appalled to undersatnd that the front end is extremely unprofessional. I asked to speak with a nurse or medical staff member and requested the names of my Dr. or Nurse on a previous visit. The front desk clerk, Daris, was rude and cold, refused to give me accurate information and decided it was ok to hang up on me when I requested the spelling of her name. I called back requested her name again and I decided to take a better approach and write an email describungbher behavior instead. My prior visit was excellent I love the medical staff, the front end staff is a problem.

Park med saved my life. At 24 weeks pregnant, I had just received confirmation about a blood disorder that my unborn baby had inherited. This disorder would cause the baby to die in utero or shortly after birth. If I chose to carry full term, I'd be at risk, too. We had to make the hardest decision of our lives.

My NJ care doctors referred me to go down to a clinic in Cherry Hill, NJ since I was past the 24 week mark for NY abortion. They said this was a clinic that goes up to 25.5 weeks. With no choice, we drove 1.5 hours to the clinic. When I arrived, I was horrified at how run down the clinic looked and how many women were there. I waited 3 hours to be called in for an ultrasound and finger prick, and was turned away from the clinic because my hemoglobin levels were low and because of the fetal anomaly. They did not feel confident operating on me.

At that point, I felt so hopeless. During our 1.5 hours drive back home, I kept googling and calling abortion clinics nearby and person after person, I was turned away due to how late I was in my pregnancy. I decided to call the national abortion Federation and explained to them that I was 24 weeks along with fetal anomaly, they gave me 2 places to call, one of which was Park Med and the other in Boulder, CO. Of course, I call Park Med first and had a lengthy convo with the receptionist explaining to her that I had just been turned away from an abortion. She was very nice and patient with me and asked if I could come in that day. I said sure but also stressed to her that I was 24ish week pregnant, she assured me that park med performs abortions up to 26 weeks. I felt immediate relief at that moment. I just wonder why my NJ care doctors did not tell me about park med in the first place. I went in same day, got my blood drawn and got an ultrasound, spoke with the doctor and told him about my horrible experience at Cherry Hill. I had to go back the next morning, praying that my hemoglobin levels were okay enough for the procedure. Thank god it was. I can't stress how important it is to find a medical staff that gives you world class service when you're going through the worst thing in life. The doctors and nurses at park med really turned this traumatic experience into a peaceful one for me. I feel so blessed to have been referred here by the NAF, or else I would have ended up in Boulder, CO. Thank you Park Med for saving my life and thank you to the entire medical team for your kindness!

This is a clean place for the most part, and that's about it. I feel like they lack discretion. Discussing financials and the process of what's going to happen out in the open in the waiting room is unprofessional. Like why do 50 other people have to know what I'm there for? You make an appointment just to be sitting there for hours so they can crank up the price for their services. My opinion there's better places to go to.

This place is horrible, as mentioned in previous reviews . In my experience not, they we're advertised on zocdoc as if it's a regular OB GYN, that could not be further from the truth . It's a clinic, they treat you like it's a clinic , the atmosphere feels like a clinic, it's just sub-par service , a lot of back and forth with the front desk , overcharged co pays , long waits and awful customer service . This is a Clinic, advertise yourself as such , so that patients coming in for regular OV GYN check ups are not mislead and waisting there time.

This place is horrible. Doctor made my issue worse. I tried to call to follow up with additional problems. Receptionist had my only hold for 45 + mins to just hang up on me MULTIPLE TIMES. I had to go to ER since I couldn't get ahold of doctor.

Terrible billing-my service was supposed to have been covered, then about a year later $3000 showed up as a collections from them on my credit report. I have been calling on and off for about a year now to try to have this issue resolved and they are extremely unhelpful-seems very fishy to me. I love the blurb on their website about how much they care about their patients and that you won't receive an unexpected bill.

You have to do what you have to do but I strongly advise asking a lot of questions ahead of time to be very clear about their procedure and what you can expect to pay, especially now that insurance seems to be covering less and less.
