University of South Florida Maternal Fetal Medicine Fellowship

USF MFM Fellows- Chinedu Nwabuobi,MD & Karla Leavitt,MD

The University of South Florida Maternal Fetal Medicine fellowship program aims to produce groundbreaking and innovative researchers, exemplary clinicians and educators to promote and enhance the field and practice of Maternal Fetal Medicine. The mission of the University of South Florida College of Medicine is to provide the best possible educational experience through excellence in teaching, research and creative activity, and service to the state and society.

We foster these aims through a wide variety of clinical and research experiences. Our primary clinical site, Tampa General Hospital, serves as a regional referral center with over 6100 deliveries per year. This large number of deliveries leads to a wide range of complex maternal and fetal cases creating a strong clinical experience. During their training, fellows also obtain exposure to our fetal therapy program. Furthermore the fellowship offers clinical, translation and basic science research opportunities with several NIH funded faculty members. Finally our diverse faculty provide a community in which we aim to develop your unique career as a Maternal Fetal Medicine specialist.
