An undercover video shot last summer by a new pro-life organization called Center for Medical Progress purports to show the chief medical officer of Planned Parenthood of America talking on camera about how to abort a child intact so the child's body parts can be transferred for medical and scientific research.

The video was shot by a team led by David Daleiden of the Center for Medical Progress posing as representatives of a start up biotech firm in the business of buying fetal body parts for medical and scientific research. Daleiden told Breitbart News, "It as remarkably easy to make contact with Planned Parenthood" to discuss procurement of fetal tissue.

Planned Parenthood Uses Partial-Birth Abortions to Sell Bab...

The video purports to show, between bites of lunch and sips of wine, Dr. Deborah Nucatola saying, "A lot of people want intact hearts these days, because they are looking for specific nodes."

She adds: "Yesterday was the first time she said people wanted lungs. And then, like I said, always as many intact livers as possible. People just want...some people want lower extremities, too. I mean that's easy. I don't know what they're doing with it, I guess they want muscle."

In the 8-minute edited video released today by the Center for Medical Progress, Nucatola can be seen and heard discussing her ongoing relationship with another company called StemExpress that works as a middleman in the buying and selling of fetal tissue, a process that is legal so long as any moneys exchanged are strictly for expenses and not for profit.

The video also shows what is purported to be an actual online order form from Stem Express complete with a pull-down menu for "brain, heart, heart (veins and arteries attached), lungs, liver, liver and thymus, spleen, large intestine" and so on. The order form also specifies the "gestational range" from 4 weeks upwards.

According to Daleiden, the nearly three-hour video was shot without Nucatola's knowledge in a California restaurant on July 25 last summer. The full, unedited video of the encounter published by the Center for Medical Progress, can be seen here.

In the video Nucatola can be heard saying, "Every provider had patients who want to donate their tissue, and they absolutely want to accommodate them. They just want to do it in a way that is not perceived as 'this clinic is selling tissue, this clinic is making money off of this.'"

She talks about pricing. "You know, I would throw a number out, and I would say it's probably anywhere from $30 to $100 [per specimen] depending on the facility and what's involved."

In the video, Nucatola goes into great detail about ordering specific body parts and how the abortionist goes about ensuring those parts are not damaged in the abortion. She says the abortionist uses "ultrasound guidance, so they'll know where they're putting their forceps.”

And then she talks about the baby's head. “The kind of rate-limiting step is procedure is calvarium. Calvarium — the head — is basically the biggest part. Most of the other stuff can come out intact.”

Nucatola says the doctor has to be “just kind of cognizant of where you put your graspers, you try to intentionally go above and below the thorax, so that, you know, we've been very good at getting heart, lung, liver, because we know that, so I'm not gonna crush that part, I'm going to basically crush below, and I'm gonna crush above, and I'm gonna see if I can get it all intact.”

Nucatola explains how the position of the baby can be changed so that she can be extracted up to the head and then collapse the head so that all the other body parts can be extracted without damage.

Nucatola explains how to get around the federal ban on partial birth abortion. “The Federal [Partial Birth] Abortion Ban is a law, and laws are up to interpretation. So, if I say on day one, I do not intend to do this, what ultimately happens doesn't matter.” Partial birth abortions are now a felony and punishable by up to 2 years in prison and a fine upwards of $250,000.

Nucatola talks about how the order for parts can change the way the abortions are done, “For example, so I had 8 cases yesterday. And I knew exactly what we needed, and I kinda looked at the list and said okay, this 17-weeker has 8 lams, and this one — so I knew which were the cases that were more probably likely to yield what we needed, and I made my decisions according to that, too, so its worth having a huddle at the beginning of the day and that's what I do.”

Nucatola explains that in order to limit liability Planned Parenthood's “litigation and law department...really doesn't want us to be the middle people for this issue right now. Because, actually we were approached by StemExpress to do the same thing” but “it's too touchy an issue for us to be an official middleman.”

The video ends with the investigator approaching what the video claims is Planned Parenthood President Cecile Richards at Planned Parenthood's national meeting in Washington DC last year. He identifies himself as doing “fetal tissue collection” and says, “Dr. Nucatola has been very helpful this past year.” Richards says, “Okay, great. Thank you. She's amazing.”

Breitbart News called Planned Parenthood several times for a comment, as well as Stem Express. Neither returned calls. Nucatola's Twitter feed was taken down this morning. And at least for a while Planned Parenthood's media phone number was “out of service.”

According to the US Criminal Code, the buying or selling human body parts is a federal felony. The commercial traffic of body parts from an aborted baby is punishable by up to 10 years in prison and/or a fine of up to $500,000.

Daleiden promises more revelations in the days to come. He is no stranger to undercover investigations of Planned Parenthood. For five years he was director of research for Live Action, the group headed by Lila Rose that has investigated Planned Parenthood for many years.

Some of the most disturbing parts of this video is when she is just casually discussing using the head as a grab-point, so that they don't destroy the prized organs, and all the while she is shoving food down her pie hole and drinking wine... like babies are nothing but some kind of organic, harvested revenue stream. They all need to go to prison... forever.

That bible verse is the wrath brought by God and it doesn't ask for you to intervene in these people's demise. I just want them to stop and be confined forever. This isn't just a religious issue. This should be seen as horrifying and inhumane murder for everyone that's not some secular progressive sociopath.

Confined for committing felonies, like late-term abortions and the illegal selling of body parts. I'm not really sure what your intent is on this. It seems like you want to kill her and justify it by citing bible versus that talks about God's own wrath and doesn't speak to man's killing of other people in the name of God.

Last I checked, people didn't create that flood. Maybe Professor Chaos's plan to flood the Earth by leaving his garden hose on, actually worked. Using your logic... I guess we do nothing and wait for God to drop a meteor on her house.

I surely will not be the one that stands before God and has to explain to him that I was so righteous, sinless and pure that I killed people for sinning FOR God. God seems quite capable of doing what he needs to do for himself without my help. I'll be glad to put them in a cage and let God do what he wants with them, when he wants to do it. I can protect others without killing prisoners. Imprisoning the wicked for crimes is not revenge... it's protecting society from further wicked and destructive behavior.

I did and the scripture was addressing revenge and another addressed God's wrath and none of them seemed to apply to a bunch of felonious criminals that need to go to prison.

They certainly have an accounting... but the left works real hard to make everyone believe it's not a human, and I guarantee they don't talk openly about selling the parts. In the end, the selfish desire to avoid the consequences of one's actions makes it easy to believe the lies...

For myself I am only glad that I was conceived in the days when abortion was illegal as I am sure that if that happened now I would not be born. It is a sobering thought for me. Every day I appreciate being alive and enjoying this beautiful world in which I live; this beautiful world which we are destroying.

This is another biblical sign of the end of days. Think of how utterly evil, godless, and immoral it is to butcher unborn children in a way to preserve their body parts. When you are an atheist or if your heart is void of the Holy Spirit, Satan will move in. When a society becomes so far detached from God that it could allow a butchering of humanity in this way, it deserves God's wrath and destruction.

I am one of the lucky ones as I met my birth mother years later and she explained why I was given up. In those days her father would have lost his job and also his home so that would have been wife and six children out on the street. We were able to have a good relationship although we missed out on the growing-up part. She told me that she thought of me every day of her life so I know I was loved. She actually defied her family to get in touch with me when I was about 15 years old; that was when being a bastard was a real handicap in life. Now I am special no longer; 3% when I was born, 33% or more now. LOL.

That's why the gruesome photos of aborted babies need to be shown. In high school, some of us were rather blase (don't know how to do an accent mark!) about it until our religion teacher -- a fire-and-brimstone Catholic priest -- showed us what it was all about. That straightened out a lot of us and we never looked back.

If you've ever been to the March for Life in DC in January, carrying protest signs with those pix sets off the left in unimaginable ways. They hiss and spit like the devil being splashed with holy water. They don't want you to see the true result; they want you to imagine a sanitized, benign version.

Steven P Glynn → LadyJanice · 5 years ago

True, but do you think this is how this "Doctor" presents abortion to a desperate woman? We're all sinners, but surely there is a vast difference between what a desperate, perhaps young person can be duped into, and what an educated and established person chooses as a career. To objectively choose abortion as a career is to not only commit sin, but to devote one's life to the propagation of the most hideous evil.

Some are as evil as the abortionists, others as much victim as perpetrator. We need to make some attempt to sort out the latter and hope to reclaim their souls.

If they knew? They should face charges too! As accomplices. If they don't know or didn't? I think a lot of them would have second thoughts. Then again you never know today.

Mengeles at work! The upper class of America has become the hell from below. Cutters, buyer and sellers are all sumbeaches! We are letting the left become leaders with their crazed followers. Anything to do with harming a child or cut it into parts infuriates me. And PPH is the most evil of the evils. God have mercy on us. How tragically pitiful.

Indeed it is evil, don't allow it to be diluted by adding madness. Madness cannot be evil because madness does not allow reasoning. These people are not evil because they are mad, they are evil because they have chosen to be evil.

I think that's defaming to cold blooded murderers. Cold blooded murderers are mostly one offs even if they do it somewhat frequently. Abortionists have elevated it to a production line business of death. Even the Nazis didn't accomplish wholesale killing on this scale for this long. Yet we accept it as just another fact of life under SCOTUS imposed immorality.

Bingo! Every time, and I mean EVERY TIME, the MSM, Left and the baby blenders bring up the "rape" or "incest" issue, the Right must do what Rand Paul did; go on the attack!
