Years of research into the abortion industry has revealed a long history of abuses against women — not just in the way that they deceive women, or the way they kill living human babies in the womb, but also in the most sexually despicable ways imaginable. Some of the cases are so graphic and horrific that it makes them difficult to share — but women need to know that many of these so-called

Ted Lehrer

South Florida abortionist Theodor (Ted) Lehrer's wife alleged that he forced an abortion on her against her will after she refused his demands for sex. He was a member of the National Abortion Federation... and as part of my investigations, I contacted NAF, asking where I could obtain an abortion. NAF referred me to his facility.

A report by the Miami Herald at that time detailed the allegations:

Lehrer's wife gave authorities this account of the incident: Sunday night, she was reading in a spare bedroom about 11:20 p.m. when Lehrer came into the room, handcuffed her, dragged her into him not to rape her, she said. He placed a gauze pad over her mouth but removed it when she feared she would suffocate, she said. Lehrer then had sex with her, she said. She thought the incident was over, but he then performed the abortion. She said that her husband told her he was giving her a local anesthetic but that she felt no injection, only excruciating pain.

... She pleaded with her husband to stop.... At one point, she broke free of tape holding her down. Lehrer threatened her with a syringe, saying he would inject her with a sedative, knowing that she had bad reactions to sedatives, she said.

NAF Doctor forced abortion on wife

A few days later, I called NAF again and told them I was holding news articles about the doctor's arrest — and without even attempting to verify the story, the person I spoke with assured me that the "allegations" against Lehrer were made up by "anti-choicers."

In 1989, Lehrer's wife dropped the charges, after reportedly becoming very ill with Hodgkin's Disease. Her doctor said

STATE OF FLORIDA
DIVISION OF ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS

BOARD: Medicine

CASE NUMBER: 0098363

COMPLAINANT: Broward General Medical Center

COMPLAINT RECEIVED: April 28, 1988

COMPLAINT AGAINST: Theodor Lehrer, M.D.
2100 E. Commercial Blvd.
Ft. Lauderdale, FL 33308

REVIEWED BY: David G. Plus

RECOMMENDATION: Close (PL-99)

CLOSING ORDER

THE COMPLAINT: The complaint alleges the Subject violated Sections 458.331(1)(t),(p), and (g), Florida Statutes by providing substandard medical care; performing professional services which had not been authorized; and failing to perform a legal obligation. The complaint was received by virtue of Broward General Medical Center notifying the Department, pursuant to Section 458.337, Florida Statutes, that the Subject was suspended from the hospital's staff.

THE FACTS: The subject is accused of performing an abortion on his wife forcibly and without her consent. The subject is alleged to have handcuffed his wife, taken her to the bathroom of their apartment and performed an incomplete abortion.

The case was initially presented to the Probable Cause Panel and a finding of probable cause was made. An Administrative Complaint was therefore filed. Thereafter, the victim was diagnosed as suffering from Hodgkin's disease. Her physicians have stated it is unlikely she will be able to testify or participate in any proceedings regarding this case. In addition, facts about the victim's emotional status, the physical possibility of the acts occurring as described, and other matters have been discovered which make the possibility of a successful prosecution virtually impossible.

THE LAW: Although probable cause was previously properly found, subsequent developments and information reveal that there is now insufficient admissible evidence to sustain a reasonable belief that the Department could prove by clear and convincing belief that a violation of Chapter 458, Florida Statutes, or the rules promulgated thereunder has occurred.

Nabil Ghali

Nabil Ghali is a circuit riding abortionist who at one time frequently traveled from Ohio to Kentucky and Florida despite being previously convicted on several counts of unlawful sexual transaction with a minor (a 14-year-old female neighbor) and testimony that he had improperly touched a five-year-old child.

In his op-ed, The Sisterhood of Silence, pro-choice author William Saletan noted that “a year after Dr. Nabil Ghali, the clinic’s convicted sex offender, lost his license to practice medicine in Florida, the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services had granted him a license to open another abortion facility.”

Ronald Tauber, who opened Orlando's first abortion facility. In his committing of legal abortions, he killed a woman named Gloria Small who bled to death from a perforated uterus he caused. Later, Tauber relocated to Michigan, where his license to practice osteopathic medicine in that state was revoked following his conviction of first degree criminal sexual assault and second degree criminal sexual conduct after assaulting a six-year-old child.

Abortion doctor admits pedophile

In an interview Tauber gave with a Florida media outlet after his arrest, he described "about 700 incidents with girls," the paper wrote. He was arrested twice, once in the case of the previously mentioned six-year-old, and the other after he tried to grab a 12-year-old child riding her bicycle past him. The abortionist told the paper that he had dreams of getting out and going back into medical practice.
