DOVER, Del. (AP) — State medical licensing officials have filed a formal complaint against a doctor who performed abortions at a Planned Parenthood clinic in Wilmington that was recently cited by the state for several unsafe and sanitary practices.

The complaint filed Thursday by the state medical licensing board accuses Dr. Timothy F. Liveright of engaging in multiple acts of incompetence and negligence in performing abortions on five patients this year.

It also notes that Liveright was reprimanded by Planned Parenthood last year for sexually harassing female employees and for screaming and cursing in front of patients and employees.

According to the complaint, Liveright, who has an active license to practice in Pennsylvania, sent a letter to Delaware officials last month saying he had retired from practicing medicine in Delaware.
