National Provider Identifier

The National Provider Identifier (NPI) is a 10-digit identifier required on all HIPAA standard electronic transactions. NPIs have replaced all separately issued identifiers, including Medicaid PINs and Medicare UPINs, on HIPAA standard electronic transactions. In the past, health plans assigned an identifying number to each provider with whom they conducted electronic business. Since providers typically work with several health plans, they were likely to have a different identification number for each plan. The NPI has been put in place so that each provider has one unique, United States federal government-issued identifier to be used in transactions with all health plans with which the provider conducts business.

American Medical Association's Opinions

The Connecticut Medical Examining Board and the Connecticut Department of Public Health encourage you to read the following opinions of the American Medical Association's Code of Medical Ethics related to common reasons for discipline on Connecticut physicians licenses.

AMA Code of Ethics

Opinion 1.2.1 Treating Self or Family

Treating oneself or a member of ones own family poses several challenges for physicians, including concerns about professional objectivity, patient autonomy, and informed consent.

When the patient is an immediate family member, the physician’s personal feelings may unduly influence his or her professional medical judgment. Or the physician may fail to probe sensitive areas when taking the medical history or to perform intimate parts of the physical examination. Physicians may feel obligated to provide care for family members despite feeling uncomfortable doing so. They may also be inclined to treat problems that are beyond their expertise or training.

Similarly, patients may feel uncomfortable receiving care from a family member. A patient may be reluctant to disclose sensitive information or undergo an intimate examination when the physician is an immediate family member. This discomfort may particularly be the case when the patient is a minor child, who may not feel free to refuse care from a parent.

In general, physicians should not treat themselves or members of their own families. However, it may be acceptable to do so in limited circumstances:

(a) In emergency settings or isolated settings where there is no other qualified physician available. In such situations, physicians should not hesitate to treat themselves or family members until another physician becomes available.

(b) For short-term, minor problems.

When treating self or family members, physicians have a further responsibility to:

(c) Document treatment or care provided and convey relevant information to the patient’s primary care physician.

(d) Recognize that if tensions develop in the professional relationship with a family member, perhaps as a result of a negative medical outcome, such difficulties may be carried over into the family member’s personal relationship with the physician.

(e) Avoid providing sensitive or intimate care especially for a minor patient who is uncomfortable being treated by a family member.

(f) Recognize that family members may be reluctant to state their preference for another physician or decline a recommendation for fear of offending the physician.

AMA Principles of Medical Ethics

Opinion 9.1.1 Romantic or Sexual Relationships wth Patients

Romantic or sexual interactions between physicians and patients that occur concurrently with the patient physician relationship are unethical. Such interactions detract from the goals of the patient-physician relationship and may exploit the vulnerability of the patient, compromise the physician's ability to make objective judgments about the patient's health care, and ultimately be detrimental to the patient's well-being.

A physician must terminate the patient-physician relationship before initiating a dating, romantic, or sexual relationship with a patient.

Likewise, sexual or romantic relationships between a physician and a former patient may be unduly influenced by the previous physician-patient relationship. Sexual or romantic relationships with former patients are unethical if the physician uses or exploits trust, knowledge, emotions, or influence derived from the previous professional relationship, or if a romantic relationship would otherwise foreseeably harm the individual.

In keeping with a physician's ethical obligations to avoid inappropriate behavior, a physician who has reason to believe that nonsexual, nonclinical contact with a patient may be perceived as or may lead to romantic or sexual contact should avoid such contact.

Workforce Survey Introduction

Dear Licensee:

Thank you for renewing your license online.

As part of this renewal application, you will be asked to enter your National Provider Identification (NPI) number. Please make sure you have that information available before proceeding. If you do not have your NPI number with you, you can find it online at https://npiregistry.cms.hhs.gov/. You will also be asked to enter information regarding your practice location, specialty and patients served.

The purpose of the questions is to allow the Department of Public Health to collect valuable workforce and patient care data that is critical in identifying and addressing healthcare workforce shortage and patient care issues.

Thank you for assisting the Department in this important initiative.
