Malpractice

Patient Name: Teresa Bushman
State Incident Occurred: NC Court: settled out of court
Case Number: Insurance Carrier: University of North Carolina Hospital System
Case Status: Closed (Settled) Date of Event: 06/12/2008
Judgement/Settlement Amount: 400000.00 Amount Paid: 400000.00
What is/was your status? Primary Defendant Date of Lawsuit: 02/25/2010

Provide specifics in reference to the event including the allegations and your role:

As a fellow, I was primarily in charge of the care of a patient with post-menopausal bleeding. Ultrasound was suggestive of an intrauterine polyp. The patient was scheduled for hysteroscopy with polypectomy. The patient had a stenotic cervical os, yet I believed that I had successfully dilated the os, entered the intrauterine cavity and proceeded to resect the polyp. Upon being made aware of the hysteroscopic fluid deficit, I terminated the procedure, performed a laparoscopy and identified a uterine perforation. The gynecology oncology team ran the patient's bowel and elected to perform an end-to-end anastomosis to resect part of the bowel that may have had thermal damage. The patient recovered without incident, yet later went on to have a hysterectomy at the same hospital. The insurance carrier decided it was best to settle the case given the hysteroscopic fluid deficit instead of going to court. I was no longer at that institution as I had graduated and went along with that plan. I have had no other malpractice incidents before or after this event.

She had a transvaginal ultrasound which demonstrated a suspected endometrial polyp. She was offered the option of further characterization of the polyp with saline infused sonohysterogram or surgery including hysteroscopy, dilation and curettage and polypectomy. She elected to proceed with surgery and "the risks of infection, bleeding, hemorrhage requiring blood transfusion, damage to surrounding organs including bowel and bladder, uterine perforation, hysterectomy, abdominal incision, need for further procedure were discussed with the patient" prior to consent.

On 6/12/2008 she underwent a hysteroscopy performed by Dr. Goyal to remove the endometrial polyp. Dr. Goyal was of the opinion that the patient had a difficult anatomy due to a stenotic os and extreme uterine antelexion, yet she felt she was ultimately able to enter the intrauterine cavity. A fluid deficit was noted, but Dr. Goyal believed the quantity of fluid deficit could be inaccurate given spillage of hysteroscopic fluid outside the collecting container. She believed she identified the intrauterine polyp and proceeded with resection. When the fluid deficit was larger than could be accounted for by spillage of hysteroscopic fluid, she stopped hysteroscopy and performed a diagnostic laparoscopy. Given the suspected appearance of damage to the rectosigmoid colon, she called for assistance from Gynecologic Oncology. Her calls for help were responded to promptly. Gynecologic Oncology immediately performed an exploratory laparotomy, evaluated the patient's bowel, and noted rectosigmoid bowel deserosalization and thermal injury. The patient then underwent an exploratory laparotomy with sigmoid resection and primary end-to-end anastomosis. Post-operatively the patient did well. She was discharged home on post operative day number seven.

On 6/22/2008 the patient was readmitted to UNC Hospital with complaints of drainage from her abdominal incision. She underwent wound exploration and received intravenous antibiotics. Her wound improved and she was taught home wound management with twice a day dressing changes. The decision was made to not continue out-patient antibiotics due to her multiple drug allergies. She was discharged home on hospital day three.

The patient continued to have problems with abnormal bleeding. On 3/19/2009, she underwent an attempted hysteroscopy with another physician at UNC which was aborted due to the severe anteversion of her uterus. On 7/16/2009 the patient underwent a total laparoscopic hysterectomy with extensive lysis of adhesions without complications.

Risk management was notified of the surgical complications the day of the initial surgery. The complications were reviewed at Morbidity and Mortality conference. In retrospect, Dr. Goyal's impression was that she perforated the posterior portion of a very stenotic cervix, created a false tract for the hysteroscope, and on visualization with the hysteroscope believed that what she thought was the intrauterine cavity was actually the uterine-ovarian fossa. What she believed was a polyp was an aspect of the ovarian ligament. Dr. Goyal felt comfortable with hysteroscopy having done approximately 50 procedures during her residency. Dr. Goyal completed her fellowship training at UNC on 6/30/2009. Prior to and since this incident, she has repeatedly performed this procedure without complications.

UNC Risk Management received an attorney claim packet on 2/26/2010. The attorney alleged negligence during the performance of the 6/12/2008 surgical procedures resulting in serious and permanent injuries to the patient, namely gastrointestinal injury causing alternating constipation and diarrhea. Notably, the patient had these complaints prior to her initial surgery and had a normal gastrointestinal evaluation, including endoscopy and colonoscopy, following the surgery.

Internal reviews opined there would be difficulty in defending some aspects of care. Although uterine perforation is a risk of the procedure, the documentation supports that Dr. Goyal had trouble entering the uterus, did not recognize she had perforated the uterine cavity given the difficult anatomy, and used electrocautery which resulted in a thermal burn to the bowel. Once the uterine perforation was evident, Dr. Goyal responded appropriately. The fluid deficit is a shared obligation of physician and OR staff, but it was felt that the documented two-liter fluid deficit would be difficult to defend. The claim was settled on November 23, 2010. A single payment of $400,000 was made to the patient and her attorney with 100% allocation to Dr. Goyal.

Beginning with the 2010 cycle of the National GME Census, post-graduate training segments will include the name of the program attended in addition to the sponsoring institution. Program-level information prior to 2010 will not be available for reporting. Future training dates, as reported by the program, should be interpreted as "in progress" or "current" with the projected date of completion.

Beginning with the 2016/2017 cycle of the National GME Census post-graduate training segments will include a training type of specialty (residency) or subspecialty (fellowship). Training types for programs reported prior to 2016 will not include this designation.

Post-graduate training performed at accredited osteopathic institutions or in Canada are updated on the AMA Physician Masterfile only upon verification by the program. US licensing authorities accept graduate medical education from both entities as equivalent to training performed in a US program accredited by ACGME.

If a segment below is indicated as "being re-verified", it typically means that the physician is a current resident and the AMA is confirming with the residency program that the physician is still enrolled - this standard process occurs on an annual basis.
